West Works On Summit Bid Reply

Countermove Strategy Has Double Goal

WASHINGTON (AP) — America and Britain, working Tuesday on a response to Soviet Premier Khrushchev's call for an 18-nation summit conference on disarmament next month, had a double goal in mind:

1. Leave the way open for a summit conference later;
2. Yet not impair the chances of successful disarmament talks or the West's standing in world opinion.

Authorities said they expect to send to Moscow before the end of this week the Western reply to Khrushchev's proposal that the general disarmament conference scheduled to open in Geneva March 14 start off with government chiefs of state attending.

Macmillan Rejects Idea

Britain's Prime Minister Harold Macmillan followed Secretary of State Dean Rusk's turnaround of the idea. He told the House of Commons Tuesday that an 18-nation summit would be a great time-waster. Each head of state would want to make his opening speech on a different day, U.S. authorities figured, the procedure would lend itself to propaganda rather than serious disarmament negotiating.

The United States and Britain have proposed that the Geneva gathering get under way at the foreign ministers level, while not barring a summit later. The Geneva conference is scheduled to report back to the United Nations by June 1.

Khrush May Go To Geneva

Macmillan declared he welcomed "the broad spirit" of Khrushchev's proposal. The prime minister said the problem now was to find a way of linking the U.S.-British bid with "the more general ideas which the chairman of the Soviet Union has in mind."

In Moscow diplomatic informants expressed the belief that Khrushchev may go to Geneva even if President Kennedy and Macmillan stayed home.

While there was no official confirmation of this, some diplomats speculated that Khrushchev figured he could score a propaganda victory at Geneva, which he would portray as evidence of the Communists' sincere desire to achieve disarmament despite balking by Western chiefs.

CAB Proposes Pan Am Refund

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board issued Tuesday a tentative order that would require Pan American World Airways to refund $2.2 million of air mail pay to the government.

After nearly 12 years of litigation and negotiation, the CAB proposed a compromise solution to a mail-rate case covering the period from 1946 through 1959. The board described the proceeding as one "of unique complexity."

Pan American and American Overseas Airlines, which now is a part of Pan Am, received $178.3 million in mail pay for the years involved.

Pan American contended an additional $62.9 million was due it. The proposed settlement of the case in the CAB tentative order would require a refund of $2.2 million from Pan Am to the government instead of an additional payment to the air line.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced postponement of rocket shots which had been scheduled at 6:06 p. m., EST, and 6:14 a. m. Wednesday from Wallops Island, Va.

200,000 Mourn Eight Victims Of Paris Riots

PARIS (AP)—A solemn marching mass of nearly 200,000 Parisians bade farewell Tuesday to eight victims of last Thursday's bloody antirioting rioting in a city stilled by sympathy strikes.

The turnout of mourners following black-draped coffins was one of the largest crowds in the memory of residents. It rivaled the day in August 1944 when Paris was liberated from the Nazis.

As on that memorable day, the streets were packed with people. The Grand Place de la Republique was filled as far as could be seen through the chilling drizzle which soaked the shuffling cortege on its two-mile march.

The massive funeral organized by labor unions and leftist and moderate organizations, was more than a moving tribute to the fallen demonstrators. It was a striking display of public resentment of Secret Army Organization terrorism and threats against the government by these European extremists who oppose independence for Algeria.

But the crowds also were demonstrating against police methods in suppressing Thursday's riots and the government's failure to halt plastic bombings, blamed on the secret army.

During the funeral, a walkout was widespread. In Paris, electricity, gas, subway, bus, suburban train and airport services were virtually paralyzed for four hours. Most public schools were closed as teachers struck.

Bodies of the riot victims, including three women and a 15-year-old boy, lay in state for two hours in labor union headquarters just off the historic Place de la Republique.

Congolese Premier Will Visit Russia

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI) — Congolese Premier Cyrille Adoula, who just returned from a visit to the United States, has accepted an invitation to the Soviet Union this summer, informed sources said Tuesday.

Diplomatic sources said that the Kremlin's ambassador to the United Nations, Valerian Zorin, invited Adoula when the Congo Premier visited the United Nations in New York.

Romantic Bali Lures Touring Bob Kennedys

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Bali lured the Robert F. Kennedys Wednesday. The U.S. attorney general planned to address University of Indonesia students, then take off with his wife Ethel for a three-day tour of that romantic island.

Bali is renowned as a place of love and laughter, reputed to have the slimmest women and the fattest pigs in all Malaysia.

It's a fertile island of 2,343 square miles, about the size of Delaware, nestled between Java and the Lesser Sundas. Balinese music and Balinese dancing are tourist attractions.

Israelis Cheer Eddie Kennedy

JERUSALEM (AP) — Edward M. Kennedy, youngest brother of the President, hailed the "deep and abiding" friendship of the United States and Israel Tuesday and praised Israeli aid to underdeveloped nations.

Kennedy, 29, a dollar-a-year assistant district attorney of Boston, was given an enthusiastic welcome by 2,000 Hebrew University students who tore up "go home" placards in scuffles with a small band of Communists.

In the crowded auditorium, Kennedy said the United States and Israel, shared in a belief in the dignity of man, the importance of the individual, liberty and social justice and were "irrevocably committed to the proposition that right will make might."

Harkins Takes U. S. Command In S. Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Gen. Paul D. Harkins arrived from Hawaii Tuesday, amid a fanfare, to head the new U.S. Military Assistance Command supporting South Viet Nam's war against the communist Viet Cong.

A tanned, veteran of World War II and Korea, Harkins, 57, said he accepted his appointment last week with determination and humility.

From Red China came a charge that the new American command means the United States has "decided to expand direct aggression in South Viet Nam." The charge was made by the Communist People's Daily of Peking in an editorial relayed abroad by the Soviet news agency Tass. The paper declared U.S. actions aggravate tension and endanger peace in Asia.

Harkins is taking over direction of America's largest military operation in Southeast Asia. This is a program to train, advise and support Vietnamese armed forces being built to the 200,000 mark to cope with Red guerrillas, estimated to number 20,000 who are backed by Communist North Viet Nam.

The U.S. military establishment now about 4,000 men and expected to continue to increase, was said to have outgrown the command that built it up.

A U.S. Embassy source said President Kennedy's 36-year-old brother told Sukarno the U.S. government was a friend of both Indonesia and the Netherlands, has a big interest in this dispute and has "done all it can behind the scenes" to promote a peaceful solution.

Sukarno has vowed to take West New Guinea, by force if necessary. His comments were not immediately disclosed. He is placing his nation's full resources behind a campaign to put the territory under Indonesia's flag this year.

Factory Work Week Declines By 45 Minutes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The average factory work week dropped by about 45 minutes during January because of a sharp cutback in overtime in auto production and moderate declines in several other industries, the Labor Department reported Tuesday.

Weekly earnings of factory production workers consequently shrank by $1.67 to $94.96 during the month. However, the department said the weekly earnings still were $5.88 above the level of January 1961.

The decline in the factory work week to 39.8 hours, the department said, was more than seasonal but still was one hour above January last year. Last month's drop undoubtedly was caused in large part by the severe winter storms.

The report, elaborating on figures released Jan. 31, showed employment declined seasonally last month by 1.4 million to 65 million while unemployment rose 572,000 to 4.7 million. The change was not as bad as expected for such a wintry month.

Seasonally adjusted, the unemployment rate declined from 6 per cent to 5.8 per cent — the first time in 16 months that the rate was below 6 per cent.

Officials said if the 5.8 rate continues the unemployment total would remain steady at 4.7 million in February and March and then drop in the spring months—4.1 million in April, 4 million May. A rise is expected in the summer months when young people leave schools and look for temporary jobs.

Kennedy, King Saud Confer Two Hours

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy and King Saud conferred for nearly two hours Tuesday and reported that "Arabian-American relations and international affairs were discussed in the spirit of frankness and cordiality."

A brief joint communique gave no indication whether continued U.S. use of Dhahran air base in Saudi Arabia was taken up. The present five-year operating rights to the base expire April 2, and Saud has indicated there will be no renewal.

Saud flew to Washington from Palm Beach, Fla. where he has been recuperating from eye surgery. He was given a red carpet welcome with military honors for his over-night stay.

It was disclosed the king gave Kennedy a five-foot gold sword encrusted with diamonds on the hilt and scabbard.

Gunfire Exchanged Across Berlin Wall

BERLIN (AP)—East and West German border guards exchanged tommy gun fire across the Red wall Tuesday, but nobody was hit, West police reported.

West police said the Reds opened fire when two West police mounted an observation platform on the border in the French sector district of Wedding.

The West police replied. Then a second group of East police began firing. Men on both sides took cover.

Hundreds In Idaho Flee New Floods

New Rain Storm Brings More High Water To Nevada

By The Associated Press

New floods in Idaho sent hundreds of residents fleeing to higher ground Tuesday, but high waters receded in Southern California leaving behind a sea of muck, debris, damaged homes and 26 storm-related deaths.

Another rain storm hit the Northwest and was expected to spread into flood-plagued Idaho and Utah Wednesday.

The surging Portneuf River smashed through a hastily constructed sandbag dike at Pocatello forcing hundreds to flee to higher ground.

Floods worsened in northern Nevada when a new rain storm swept into the area. The high waters closed off U.S. 40 in two areas and washed out a section of Southern Pacific railroad track.

Elsewhere in southeast Idaho, lower temperatures and clearing skies brought some respite from the worst floods in 25 years.

Gov. Robert E. Smylie of Idaho appealed to President Kennedy to designate the flood zones a disaster area.

Widespread floods in the mountain areas of the Northwest were caused by high temperatures that melted a deep snow cover and sent many rivers and streams spilling out of their banks.

Skies were cloudy in Southern California where six days of heavy rains caused heavy damage.

Elsewhere, snow and freezing drizzle extended from the Dakotas into Michigan. Freezing rain slicked parts of Ohio and the central Appalachians.

Hefty Blonde Admits Theft Of $185,120

ELIZABETH N. J. (AP) — A 270-pound blonde, who liked good living, horses and buying lavish gifts for friends, pleaded guilty Tuesday to embezzling $185,120 from her employer.

Theresa Barrasso, 29, of Belleville admitted taking the money over a 4½-year period from the Hillside, N.J., Loan Co., where she worked as a cashier.

Union County Judge W. Fillmore Wood continued her in $25,000 bail and set March 15 for sentencing. She faces up to three years in jail.

"I just like to live well," Miss Barrasso told authorities when she was arrested last December.

Police quoted her as saying she lost $30,000 in an off-track gambling spree and that she gave her boy friend, Henry Majewski, up to $500 a week.

Majewski, 29, also of Belleville, a singer, denied taking money from the woman.

Miss Barrasso's salary was $82.50 a week.

The loan company called in auditors last December to find out why they weren't making any money although they were doing a lot of business.

Police quoted her as saying she took $200 to $1,000 a week by adjusting company receipts from incoming cash to balance bank deposit slips.

Glenn Has Emergency Brake

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — America's astronaut is counting on space rocket brakes to bring him safely home.

But suppose the brakes failed? Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. could keep on orbiting for a week or more. But his capsule will carry only enough oxygen for about 24 hours of life.

Yet Glenn has a little known ace-in-space card to play—in a tricky maneuver requiring the skill of the expert pilot he is, say officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

It calls for shooting out jets of steam to act as little brakes in a series of repeated firings, at exactly the precise moments.

Glenn's normal brakes are three powerful retro or backward-firing rockets, located in the blunt end of his bell-shaped capsule. Firing them slows his capsule by about 350 miles an hour, so he

Brinkley Says Pilot Confirms U2 Breakdown

WASHINGTON (AP)—NBC television commentator David Brinkley said Tuesday night Francis Gary Powers has confirmed that his U2 spy plane had mechanical trouble before it was downed in Russia in May 1960.

Brinkley said Powers has told investigating officials, since his release by the Russians and his return to this country over the weekend, that he was kept in isolation for more than three months before being put on trial.

There was no comment from official sources on Brinkley's statements, made during a news show on the National Broadcasting Co. TV network.

Brinkley said Powers still was at some secret place on the East Coast, "but we have learned two things he has told since the Russians let him go."

"One is that he did have mechanical trouble with his U2 airplane and was forced to descend to a much lower altitude, where he was in reach of Russian ground fire," Brinkley said. "The other is that for more than three months before the Moscow trial he was kept in total isolation, given what is called a psychological conditioning, including some drugs, before he was put on the stand to answer a series of questions."

"For four years before his plane came down," Brinkley went on, "other U2 flights had passed over the Soviet Union at very high altitudes and the Russians, though they knew they were there, were unable to do anything about them. Exactly how low he was when the Russians got to him still is not known."

Powers has been in seclusion since his return to this country, following his exchange in Berlin on Saturday for Soviet spy Rudolf L. Abel. Presumably he has been undergoing questioning by Central Intelligence Agency officials.

The 82-foot rocket, an advanced version of the Atlas ticketed to boost John H. Glenn Jr., into orbit Wednesday, streaked into a clear sky and sped at more than 15,000 miles an hour to an Atlantic bulge off the western coast of South Africa.

Since the E series began testing here in October 1960, the big rocket has hit on target at distances varying from 5,000 miles to 9,954 miles. The Air Force said the over-all record of the rocket is 11 successes, 6 partial successes and 2 failures.

An announcement said the General Dynamics - made rocket achieved all flight test objectives on the 40-minute journey. The nose cone was packed with instruments to determine how well it withstood the blistering 12,000-degree re-entry heat.

The Atlas E was declared operational several months ago but testing continued in order to check refinements in various systems.

Orbital Shot Threatened By Storms

Odds 50-50 With Weather Briefing Set Early Today

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., his scheduled round-the-world orbit flight threatened by Atlantic storms, Tuesday night went through final hours of preparation for the scheduled blastoff time at 7:30 a. m. (EST) Wednesday.

A decision will be made at a weather briefing early Wednesday whether to pick up the second half of the split countdown, the first half of which was completed Tuesday.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced Tuesday night that weather conditions were "marginal" in the Atlantic recovery area east of Bermuda, where Glenn's capsule would land if the mission were terminated after one orbit instead of the intended three.

Earlier, a spokesman said this boiled down to 50-50 odds, with the possibility the long-awaited flight would have to be postponed for an eighth time.

In hopes that the weather would improve, Glenn and the countdown proceeded on schedule.

Glenn Watches Atlas Shot

In late afternoon Glenn watched an Atlas military rocket launching from the Cape and may have gained some confidence in the report of its successful 7,000-mile flight. Although more powerful than the Atlas slated to boost him aloft, the missile fired Tuesday contained many of the same components.

As the scheduled launching time neared, hundreds of persons began gathering on the beaches north and south of the Cape to gain vantage points from which to watch the firing.

An estimated crowd of 75,000 was on the beaches when the flight was postponed Jan. 27 because of weather.

Lt. Col. John S. Powers, speaking for NASA, said the man-in-space project's operations director, Walter C. Williams, didn't feel Glenn would be launched if the weather held.

Conditions were reported satisfactory in two other areas, where Navy ships would attempt to recover the 40-year-old Marine lieutenant colonel and his spacecraft if they made two or three orbits, miles south of Bermuda and 800 miles southeast of this cape.

Glenn "In Good Spirits"

Meanwhile, the countdown moved ahead without hitting any snags. The plan, as usual, was to complete the detailed check of the rocket, the capsule and the entire worldwide supporting system starting at midnight.

Glenn, who has betrayed no outward signs of tension in the long wait and repeated delays, was said to be "in very good spirits."

The 65-foot-tall Atlas rocket, which developed a fuel tank leak after the last postponement 18 days ago, was reported ready to go.

The Atlas has been standing on the launch pad for almost 2½ months, raising questions as to whether it should be replaced. But the Air Force experts said there was no limit on how long the Atlas could remain in place.

Over that nearly 2½-month period, sources said, the rocket has been checked over completely three times. Some of its parts have been examined as many as 15 times.

Six Plead Innocent In Kenny Fraud Case

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP)—Former Minneapolis Mayor Marvin L. Kline was given an additional 10 days Tuesday to enter a plea to a 16-count indictment charging him with fraud while head of the Sister Kenny Foundation.

Six other persons named in the same indictment pleaded innocent before Judge Gunnar H. Nordbye in U.S. District Court.

Kline did not appear. His attorney said the 54-year-old defendant was ill and near collapse.

Nordbye set 9 a. m. Feb. 23 for Kline to enter a plea. Other defendants, freed on $2,500 bond, were given 30 days to file motions. No trial date was set.

All seven were indicted by a federal grand jury that probed affairs of the polio foundation for 16 months. The indictment lists 15 counts of mail fraud and one of conspiracy in connection with raising and disbursing funds donated by the public.

Steel Talks Set Today; Hodges Sees Early Pact

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Union and company negotiators open talks Wednesday on a new contract for the nation's basic steelworkers in the wake of a prediction by Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges that an early settlement will be reached.

Hodges, at a news conference Tuesday in Washington, said it was "the general understanding that the steel contract will be settled long before" the old contract expires June 30. He said both sides have indicated "a serious sincere attempt to get this thing out of the way."

Hodges also forecast a noninflationary settlement. He said he did not believe there would be "much of an increase, if any," in steel prices as a result of the contract.

The secretary said he believed both management and labor realize the necessity to hold prices to a level competitive with foreign producers, and people now are "taking very seriously" the President's request for moderation.

The steel contract is considered by many economists the nation's most important labor pact.

President Kennedy used his influence to get the negotiations off to an early start—the earliest since the United Steelworkers Union was organized in the late 1930s.

The present 30-month contract expires June 30. In 1959 negotiations didn't start until April 30.

Board Vetoes Contract Award

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The Board of Public Works overruled Tuesday the recommendation of the director of public improvements for the awarding of a contract to construct a gymnasium at State Police headquarters in Pikesville.

Albert P. Backhaus, director of the Public Improvements Department, had recommended that the contract be awarded to the second low bidder Charles J. Cirelli Inc. even though his bid was $1,100 more than Commercial Contractors Inc.

Commercial submitted a bid of $217,000 as a base bid and $4,700 as additional cost for substitution of slate roofing on all sloping roofs in lieu of asphalt shingles.

Cirelli submitted a base bid of $217,900 and $4,900 for the additional cost. There were 16 bidders on the contract.

Backhaus said he made his recommendation because the low bidder, Commercial, had not complied completely with the state's directives on filing bid proposals.

Glenn's Family Hopes Shot Today

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP)—The family of astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., hopes Wednesday will be the day for his off-postponed orbit in space flight.

"It will be very nice to have it on Valentine's Day — it will be a wonderful day to remember," Glenn's wife, Annie, said Tuesday.

When word came that there was a 50-50 chance that the weather will be right for her father's launch into space, daughter Lyn, 14, said "Let's hope the right 50 works out."

Mrs. Glenn, a smiling, petite brunette in a bright red suit, came out with Lyn, a pretty teenager with freckles, to receive a giant valentine in front of their home.

The valentine was a red, white and pink valentine of wood, 16 feet high and 12 feet wide. The words on the pink satin oval said, "To the John Glenn family from the people of Roanoke, Va."

Phipps Offers Illegitimacy Aid Ban Bill

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Sen. Louis N. Phipps, D-Anne Arundel moved Tuesday to eliminate aid for illegitimate children from Maryland welfare rolls.

He also sponsored legislation to require that list of recipients of welfare aid be submitted monthly to county commissioners or the mayor of Baltimore City, showing the amount each person has received.

The bill dealing with illegitimate children would deny welfare aid for such a child unless a court specifically approved it.

The bill would apply to any "child born to her out of wedlock or deemed by the local (welfare) unit, on compelling evidence, to be illegitimate despite its birth within wedlock."

An application for such assistance would be referred by welfare authorities to the court having jurisdiction in juvenile causes in that particular subdivision.

If the judge decided that "the home and the mother's custody do not assure and confirm to proper standards of care and of public morality," he would arrange for removal of the child from the home and for its care in a foster home or other facility.

"In such latter event, the mother shall not be paid any assistance for the child under this sub-title or under any other of such public welfare programs," the bill provides.

The bill goes a step farther than legislation which Phipps has introduced previously to disqualify mothers of illegitimate children from welfare. A bill he sponsored two years ago would have started such disqualification with the birth of a second illegitimate child. The bill failed.

Two Deaths Up State Traffic Toll To 38

By The Associated Press

Two men died Tuesday of injuries received in traffic accidents on Maryland's highways.

They were Maurice C. Tilghman, 62, Charles Town, W. Va., and Frank Matthews, 46, Parkton, Md.—the 37th and 38th traffic fatalities in the state during 1962.

There had been 33 traffic deaths in the state on Feb. 13, 1961.

Tilghman, a veteran horse clocker who worked on the Maryland-West Virginia circuit for the Morning Telegraph and Daily Racing Form, was driving a car which crashed into the rear of a parked truck on U.S. 40 near Lisbon in Howard County. His widow, Amanda, 50, was critically injured in the accident, which happened Monday.

Matthews died Tuesday of injuries received Jan. 27 when his car struck a box car of the Pennsylvania Railroad in Baltimore.

CIG Won't Stage Eastern Shore "Freedom Rides" This Weekend

By The Associated Press

The Civic Interest Group of Maryland said Tuesday there would be no freedom rides to the Eastern Shore this Saturday—the first time since Christmas that such demonstrations have not been scheduled.

Leo Burroughs Jr., publicity chairman for CIG, said there would be mass protests on a local level held at Easton, however.

CIG had said last weekend it would return Saturday to Chestertown, an Eastern Shore town of 4,100 which is the home of Washington College. No reason was given for the change in plans.

CIG has sponsored freedom rides to various Eastern Shore communities during the past two months in an effort to lower the racial barrier in restaurants and lunch counters.

Meanwhile, Clarence Logan, CIG chairman, said letters had been sent all participants in a scheduled Child Welfare Eastern Regional Conference urging them to select some other site than Baltimore for their March meeting.

Protests already had been voiced to leaders of the conference by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and CIG, asking that the meeting not be held in Baltimore.

Joseph H. Reid, executive director of the conference, has indicated the group will meet in Baltimore.

March 1-3 as planned.

In the letters sent out Tuesday, Logan said the fact that the Lord Baltimore Hotel, where the conference is scheduled, had agreed to open its doors to all comers did not alter the position of CIG.

"Until all of the restaurants located in downtown Baltimore, on Route 40 and throughout Maryland assure us that they will, also, serve all persons, regardless of race, color or creed, we will not compromise our position because of a solitary commitment by a hotel," Logan said.

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—David Scull, Montgomery County businessman and Republican leader, became the first official candidate Monday for the Republican nomination for governor.

Scull, posting his $290 filing fee with the secretary of state, said he was entering the race because nobody else has from his party and the filing deadline (March 5) is only three weeks away.

"If subsequently others file who, in my judgment, can make a better run or who would inspire a greater public confidence I am willing to withdraw," he said.

He emphasized, however, that he would not get out if former Gov. McKeldin becomes the only other candidate.

Victim Of Plane Crash Made Many Trips Here

NEWTON H. CRUMLEY

The death of Newton H. Crumley, prominent Nevada businessman, in a plane crash northeast of Tonah, Nev., Saturday night brought back many memories to a number of pioneer pilots of this section.

One of the best known early local flyers, Ronald "Torque" Landis, Oldtown Road, maintained a friendship with Crumley dating back to the early thirties when the crash victim was a pilot with the Army Air Force.

Mexico Farms Airport, the first field in this area to be used by planes after World War I, was an Army field for some time in the 1920s.

Crumley was stationed at Bolling Field, Washington, D. C., during the early 1930s and he made trips to the local airport.

He became friendly with many of the pioneer flyers including Landis, Miss Minnie Johnson, Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker and Wilbur Gaither, all who reside here, and the late W. W. "Woodie" Rayburn.

In fact, one of his flights to Mexico Farms turned out to be a near-tragedy when his P-12-E pursuit ship was destroyed by fire.

Landis recalled that on June 4, 1934, Crumley, then a lieutenant, was gassing up his ship here for a return flight to Bolling Field.

The tank being filled by Harvey Johnson, son of J. J. "Bogus" Johnson, of Mexico Farms, overflowed. Observing the operation were a number of WPA employees who were working on the field.

One of them, Landis said, lighted a cigarette and carelessly tossed the match to the ground too close to the gasoline. It ignited, destroyed the plane, and seriously burned Harvey Johnson.

Johnson's life was saved by the late Arthur McBride. The latter threw Johnson to the ground, rolled him and extinguished the fire on his clothing. In doing so, McBride was also seriously burned.

A picture taken of Crumley beside the charred wreckage remains a part of the extensive photo collection in Landis' albums.

After Crumley was transferred from Bolling Field, the local flyers lost track of him until 11 years later when Landis, then a first lieutenant in the Air Force, flew into Minter Air Force Base, Bakersfield, Calif., in July 1945.

Landis, who later was promoted to captain, had been flying C-54's over The Hump in the China-Burma-India theatre, and was seeking clearance at Bakersfield.

Glancing at the bulletin board, he noticed a Col. Newton H. Crumley, listed. Landis said he asked a sergeant who Col. Crumley was, and the sergeant answered "He's base commander and he's standing next to you."

Landis turned and asked him, "Have you burned up any P-12's lately?" With that, the colonel recognized him and they had a reunion at Crumley's home. Since that time, the two men maintained a correspondence, exchanging family pictures and news.

Crumley, 50, was president of the Holiday Hotel in Reno and was a member of the Nevada State Legislature. With him when his plane iced up and crashed Saturday night was E. J. Questa, 63, manager of the statewide First National Bank of Nevada.

Crumley was flying his private twin-engine Aero Commander when the last words from him were "I'm icing up and losing control."

The United States grows more than 70 per cent of the world's corn crop.

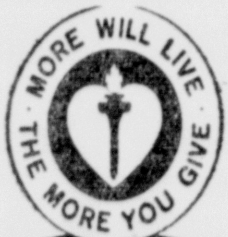

Other items slated for discussion are planning and zoning, contributions to volunteer fire companies, the cost of the sheriff's office, Civil Defense, bounties and agricultural services.

LaVale Area Sewage System Cost Cited

David J. Corrigan, 1145 Brad-dock Road, wrote the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday concerning the proposed sewage system for the LaVale area.

He said that residents of LaVale have been paying taxes for operation of the Sanitary Commission in LaVale since 1947 and the cost of a sewage system would be an added tax expense.

The commissioners instructed James G. Stevenson, clerk, to send the letter to the LaVale Sanitary Commission.

County Gets State's Attorney Budget Request

James S. Getty, state's attorney, yesterday submitted a budget of $26,949 to operate his office for the coming fiscal year.

Getty, in a separate communication, recommended that the county board grant the $200 annual pay increase given to county employees to two members of his staff who are not covered under the Civil Service program.

The employees are Edwin R. Liliya, county investigator, and Mrs. William Lloyd, secretary. The board had Leslie J. Clark, attorney to the board, check the law governing the operation of the state's attorney's office and then granted the raise as requested by Getty.

Getty also suggested that the board consider a proposal to employ an assistant for Liliya. He cited the efficient work of the investigator and his excellent system of files and records on criminal matters. Employment of an assistant would take some of the load off Liliya and also would enable him to train a man to provide even better service to the county.

Commissioners Discuss Additional County Garage

An informal discussion was held yesterday by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners on a proposal to construct a county garage somewhere in the Cresaptown area.

Commissioner John J. Rowan said that having a garage in that section would expedite the movement of equipment to roads on maintenance work and also for snow removal in the winter months.

He said that much time is lost in moving equipment from the Franklin Street garage here through the city to the Cresaptown area on both maintenance and snow removal work. This is particularly important due to the necessity of hundreds of cars traveling to and from McMullen Highway on county roads to the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, according to the commissioners.

It was also pointed out that it may be desirable in the not too distant future to move the present Franklin Street garage to the Cresaptown area and thus provide an excellent site for housing or else some type of institution.

Moving the Franklin Street county garage from the North End location would also improve that primarily residential neighborhood, it was stated.

An estimated five to 10 acres of land would be needed in any proposed new county garage in the Cresaptown section. The commissioners indicated they will make some inquiries as to land available for such a project.

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 5

Even the friendliest baby may suddenly turn shy at the sight of a relative or friend whom he's cheerfully accepted before. (Usually a passing stage at 5 months of age.) One reason for this shyness may be the fact that baby has come to realize that other people are different from mother. Baby knows he can count on you... he's not sure about the others. Suggested helps:

- Let baby study visitors from the "protective custody" of your arms. A favorite hold-toy will provide added security.
- If you tell coddle-loving friends to hold off 'til baby makes his own advances, chances are he'll socialize sooner.

Shy babies or sociable ones... lap-sitters or high chair heroes... all like flavor surprises from time to time. Newest Gerber offerings:

New! Gerber Strained Orange-Apricot Juice, a delightful companion to the 6 other refreshing Gerber Juices. Delicate in flavor, it has just as much vitamin C as Gerber Orange Juice. One can provides enough vitamin C to meet the recommended daily dietary allowance for babies.

New! Gerber Meat Sticks. The perfect finger food for toddlers. Made from selected Armour Pork and Beef, and nonfat milk, they're extra rich in body-building protein. Mildly seasoned for wonderful flavor... low in fat for easy digestibility. Serve "as is" or heat slightly.

"Play with your baby," say the child specialists. Aside from the fun of participation, 2-way games help teach baby the 3 big C's: concentration, co-ordination, co-operation. If baby learns to play with you, he's less apt to be shy when others want to play with him.

Have you treated baby to a Gerber Strained Dinner lately? Chicken Noodle Dinner, Vegetables with Turkey or Beef and Egg Noodles with Vegetables? They're tasty as all get out. Gerber Baby Foods, Fremont, Michigan.

Lee Offers Tax Relief Bill For S&L Depositors

Provides For Dividends, Interest

By GEORGE BOWEN

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The debated tax relief for depositors in an insolvent savings and loan association was offered the Maryland Legislature Tuesday by Del. Blair Lee III, D-Montgomery.

Lee is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator on a ticket headed by George P. Mahoney. Mahoney has said he will make savings and loan operations his main campaign issue against Gov. Tawes.

Last week, Lee had supported an unsuccessful move for a grand scale legislative inquiry into history of the savings institutions in Maryland.

Lee's bill for tax relief provides that shareholders who were credited with but did not receive dividends or interest in insolvent firms would not have to include them in their income report.

If there are any assets left and distributed later by a receiver, the shareholders then would include any dividends or interest in their income tax returns for that year.

Lee also introduced the fifth reapportionment proposal of the session.

Lee's method, if approved by the voters, would increase the House membership from 123 to 125. The Legislature would reapportion the House in 1966 and starting in 1970 every 10 years with the only proviso that no county or Baltimore legislative district have less than two delegates.

Sen. Louis N. Phipps, D-Anne Arundel, renewed a drive to gain more motor vehicle revenues for the counties. He would reverse the present distribution of 30 per cent to Baltimore City and 20 to the counties.

Phipps also sought to freeze the property taxes and assessments for people over 65 years of age and to increase the filing fees of candidates for public office.

It would cost candidates for the Legislature $100 instead of the present $25 to run in a primary, $500 as compared to $290 for governor, U. S. Senate, comptroller and attorney general, and $250 compared to $100 for Congress.

Sen. James A. Pine, D-Balto County, proposed to have the state offer to loan the counties and Baltimore $10 million more for building schools.

Second place winner is Caroline Hadley, a freshman major in elementary education and a graduate of Valley High School. Third place winner is Nancy Seman, a freshman major in elementary education and a graduate of Dundalk High School.

GOP Candidate For Congress Lauds Party

Cooper Benedict Speaks At Keyser

KEYSER—A tribute to all Republican presidents from Abraham Lincoln to Dwight D. Eisenhower highlighted a talk by Cooper Benedict, candidate for Congress from the Second District, as the Mineral County Republican Women's Club marked the 133rd anniversary of Lincoln's birth at a special dinner in the Rosemont Restaurant.

A capacity crowd filled the Rose Room to hear Mr. Benedict blast the Kennedy administration and to elaborate on the functions of the "brain-trusters" now operating under JFK.

He emphasized that "we must maintain strong postures of defense" and then elaborated on the work that was done in the Defense Department during the Eisenhower Administration of which he was a part. Benedict also spoke on socialism as he saw it in England, state and federal controls, the dangers of the federal government being bureaucratic, and warned that now is the time to begin reducing the national debt and income taxes rather than increasing them.

He told the GOP women that "I am proud to be a Conservative Republican . . . the Democrats have put entirely different meaning on it than what I felt it should be . . . The Democrats want to change everything. The Republicans would welcome a change when it is something better but not just because it is something different."

"We conservatives believe simply that in facing new problems of today we should not forget the lessons of the past and that we should preserve the wisdom and virtues that time and experience have proven over and over again."

Benedict said "we believe that any lasting solution of our problems must protect and cherish the proven virtues of industry, initiative, integrity, honor, and thrift."

He was introduced by Circuit Clerk James A. Dixon, chairman of the Mineral County Republican Executive Committee, who was among several candidates for county office present. Accompanying Benedict were his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Keith Dunlap, also of Lewisburg.

Mrs. Mary McCoy, president of the club, presided at the meeting. Special music was provided by a trio from Romney consisting of George Shahan, supervisor of music for Hampshire County Schools; J. W. Pew and Robert J. Rowe. Mrs. McCoy also read telegrams from former Governor Cecil H. Underwood and Mrs. Perle Harman, national committeewoman from West Virginia.

Invocation was offered by Rev. John D. MacLeod, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, and Rev. Donald D. Anderson, of Trinity Lutheran Church, gave the benediction.

During the dinner-meeting the Stubblefield Bowl which the club recently won was displayed.

Rep. Van Zandt Would Call Pilot Powers

Republican Speaks At Charleston

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Rep. James E. Van Zandt, R-Pa., said Tuesday a congressional committee would call in U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers to get first hand details of his capture during a reconnaissance flight over Russia about 21 months ago.

Van Zandt, in Charleston to address a Lincoln Day Dinner Tuesday night, said it's not the feeling of congressmen that charges should be lodged against Powers.

He said that Congress should be advised as to the circumstances of Powers' capture "and whether he (Powers) violated the terms of his contract" which called for the destruction of his plane and its film.

The 62-year-old congressman is the ranking GOP member of the Central Intelligence Agency subcommittee of the House Armed Forces Committee.

Talking about area redevelopment during a news conference, the veteran lawmaker said the Act "will not solve chronic unemployment."

"People who expect jobs overnight under the act will be disappointed," Van Zandt predicted. The congressman said he favored instead, "a faster tax write-off to spur business into creating new jobs as a solution to unemployment."

Criticizing the Kennedy administration's foreign policy, Van Zandt said:

"Laos . . . administration spokesmen tell the American people that Laos is not lost. Laos is lost, the Communies have taken over, and the American people already accept that fact."

"The Berlin wall represents a victory for the West, administration spokesmen say. The fact is the Berlin wall has lowered American prestige. All of our friends ask, 'what's the matter with Uncle Sam, letting them get away with it?'"

A native of Altoona, Pa., Van Zandt, has served in Congress since 1938, except for 3½ years he spent in the Navy during World War II. He also is a veteran of World War I and saw combat duty during the Korean War. He held the rank of rear admiral when he retired from the reserve in 1960.

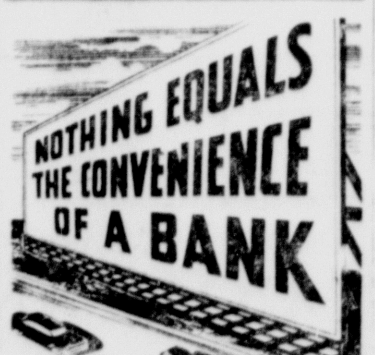

Besides being senior member of the House Armed Services Committee, Van Zandt is ranking House Republican member of the Congressional Joint Committee on Atomic Energy.

Bishop's Fund Launched In Keyser Area

KEYSER — Preliminary planning of the local campaign for the Bishop's Development Fund highlighted a meeting of the Holy Name Society of the Church of the Assumption held Monday night in St. Mary's Hall.

The opening of the campaign throughout the Diocese of Richmond, comprising 18 counties in Virginia and eight in West Virginia, was announced Sunday from pulpits in 78 parishes and 35 missions. This campaign has a minimum goal of $550,000 with Keyser's proportionment being $2,500.

The campaign is being undertaken to raise part of the money needed to pay for the education of major and minor seminarians, to help defray maintenance costs of St. John Vianney Seminary and to purchase sites for new parishes and institutions.

Dr. Robert McCoy Jr. has assumed the general chairmanship for the drive and several teams will be established to conduct the drive locally on the same basis as the campaign about a year ago.

Plans were also discussed for a pre-lenten dance to be held in cooperation with the Ladies Sodality sometime in March, the membership drive, cemetery care, and group communions. Several committee chairmen were appointed by President William Vuicich on the above-mentioned projects.

Fr. John O'Connell, spiritual advisor for the society, opened and closed the meeting with prayer and discussed with the members plans for the development campaign. # Rep. Moore Says He Will Seek House Probe

Cites Coupon Book For Contributions

WHEELING, W. Va. (UPI)—Rep. Arch Moore, R-W. Va., said he will take his charge that State Road Commission employees are forced to contribute to the Democratic party to a House subcommittee investigating federal highway construction.

Moore renewed his charge here Monday and said he would show the subcommittee a coupon book that is used in the contributions. He displayed the so called "pass book" at a Republican meeting in Clarksburg Oct. 18.

Moore said amounts of $5, $6 and $8 were stamped on coupons in the booklet. He said when SRC workers are employed "they receive a book with 48 coupons, one for each month for four years. Each month the employee cuts the coupon stamped with the monthly rate."

"The Democratic administration that claims to be the friend of the working man, has the coupons printed in Arkansas by one of the largest non-union plants in that state," Moore added.

State Road Commissioner Burl Sawyers denied earlier that the coupon books are used for compulsory donations. He said the books are distributed by the State Democratic Party and are for a record of purely voluntary contributions. "There are no epistols if no contribution is made," Sawyers said.

Keyser Club Hears Report On "Imperialism In Asia"

KEYSER — Keyser Branch of the American Association of University Women met at the home of Mrs. Donald D. Anderson recently and heard Norman E. Rodgers of the Potomac State College faculty discuss "Imperialism in Asia" with emphasis on Japan.

He stated that the Japanese began their imperialistic ventures as a result of industrialization and over-population and came out of the Russo-Japanese War as a world power.

During World War I, Japan experienced increased industrialization, built up foreign trade, developed a large and efficient merchant marine and secured diplomatic advantages, he suggested.

Japan's successful economic penetration and occupation of Manchuria was really the beginning of World War II, he said.

The United States reacted by proclaiming the Stimson Doctrine and by urging England to cooperate in stopping Japan. The plan was unsuccessful and finally both countries sold war materials to the aggressor. Japan's success in imperialism was a standing invitation for Mussolini and Hitler to do the same.

Mr. Rodgers said that imperialistic forces are operating today in Africa, Asia, and Latin America.

Groups May Fly At Reduced Rate

Major airlines will offer reduced North Atlantic fares this year to groups of 25 or more, according to the Conlon Travel Agency.

The agency can advise on legal requirements but is not allowed to solicit or help get such groups together, according to Thomas F. Conlon Jr.

Eligible for the reduced fares are affinity groups, as members of a society or association; or spontaneous groups, which would be just about any group which might get together and plan a trip to Europe, he said.

There are a number of restrictions, he said, including a ban on advertising or announcement of plans.

The special group fares, he said, is an experiment to see if the savings, as high as $285, will stimulate demand.

Gen. Francis Marion, the American Revolutionary War leader, was known as the "Swamp Fox."

Stops Constipation Due to "Aging Colon"

New laxative discovery re-creates 3 essentials of normal regularity

As you grow older, the internal muscles of your colon wall also age, lose the strength that propels waste from the body. Stagnant bowel contents become so dry and shrunken that they fail to stimulate the urge to purge.

Relief, doctors say, lies in a new laxative principle. Old-style bulks and moisteners may create gas, take 3 or 4 days for relief. Old-style salts and drugs frequently cramp and gripe. Of all leading laxatives, only new COLONOID gives you its special 3-way relief that works only on the lower colon (area of constipation).

(1) COLONOID prevents the formation of dry, hardened waste for easy passage without pain or strain. (2) COLONOID's unique rebulking action helps restore flabby colon muscles. (3) And COLONOID acts gently on the nerve reflexes that stimulate the vital "mass movement" of your lower colon.

Colonoid relieves even chronic constipation overnight; is so gentle it was hospital proved safe even for expectant mothers. And COLONOID won't interfere with absorption of vitamins or other food nutrients. Get COLONOID today! INTRODUCTORY SIZE 43¢

The Spotlight On Agencies

Among the few areas of Congressional action which seem certain this session is an overhaul of the administrative and regulatory agencies of the Executive Branch. This certainly is limited to action of some uncertain type but is assured by bipartisan recognition that delays and inequities in the conduct of regulatory business have made some changes desirable.

Outside of legislation, no government force exerts more influence over the daily activities of each individual than the relatively small group of officials which sets rates and otherwise largely controls the conduct of commerce, transportation, management, labor relations, security exchanges and trade practices.

Consistent criticism has been heard of delays in adjudication of complaints before the regulatory commissions and of a growing tradition among appeal tribunals to ignore rulings by the regulators until they are appealed by an injured party.

There also exists a widely-held conviction that the deliberations of these bodies are not made as freely available to public scrutiny as they should be.

Significantly, the courts are likely to feel the brunt of whatever action Congress brings forth. Jurists have been blamed particularly for developing a philosophy of non-review on the grounds all other recourse channels have not been exhausted.

This attitude has largely nullified Congressional intent that the judicial system provide an effective check on administrative rulings.

House Judiciary Committee hearings on these and other shortcomings of the regulatory statutes and regulations now in effect will be aimed toward methods of correcting abuses attributable to nothing more deliberate than the natural tendency of expanding government to wander from the intended direction.

The Party

For an American to understand what is going on inside the Soviet Universal State, he must first adjust his mind to the Party. Nothing like it exists in our country. President Kennedy has in his Cabinet some Republicans and some who are unrelated to parties. This is impossible in any state within the Soviet Universal State. To belong at all, to hold any position, to function in any manner, it is essential to be a member of the Party.

Such membership does not involve mere belonging; it is a total acceptance of the Party line of the moment. It means the devotion of all the hours of one's life to the Party. There can be no deviation even of the minutest nature. In the time of Lenin and Stalin such deviation was punished by death. During Khrushchev's management of the Party, he has substituted exile for death.

Khrushchev's Party line is based upon the general principle of competitive co-existence with capitalist countries. Such co-existence means that ultimately the Soviet Universal State will absorb all nations in the world without exception. This will be accomplished without war, and even with a reduction of Communist penetration. Khrushchev assumes that Marxist economics and sociology are so superior to capitalism that there can be no resistance to this movement.

The present struggle within the Communist Party is perhaps the most serious that has ever taken place. Actually, from a strict Marxist-Leninist standpoint, what Khrushchev proposes is nationalistic Communism. Under Khrushchev's system Russia could become the richest and most powerful nation in the world, but it would not be a Marxist nation. The idea of the dictatorship of the proletariat would be abandoned, and in its place would appear a managerial society utilizing capitalist techniques. Whereas such a system might raise the standard of living of the Russian people, or of the people of any state, beyond the conception of man at the present time, it would nevertheless be a total rejection of Marxism and therefore must be rejected. The struggle between Khrushchev and Mao Tse-tung is on this issue; the struggle between Khrushchev and the remaining Stalinists is on this issue. For anyone to compromise would mean an abandonment of the Revolution.

We enter here upon a concept of the Party which is strictly ecclesiastical. Those who accept the Marxist-Leninist-Stalinist line regard the success of the Revolution as more important than the welfare of the people. They believe that when the Revolution has succeeded throughout the world all the benefits to man now existing in a capitalist state would automatically accrue to the people. They would use any method to achieve their end including war and regard Khrushchev's abandonment of war as a betrayal of the Revolution.

We must understand this conflict if we are not to be confused by current events in Russia. Any idea of liberalism in Russia is absurd. Neither side has a liberal program, by which I mean a program which recognizes the rights of man. The word "liberalism" is used incorrectly by those who think in Western terminology. Both sides adhere to the basic principle that the state must determine the nature and beliefs of man, but the difference is over the techniques by which the Revolution is to succeed.

From an American standpoint the defeat at this moment of Khrushchev would mean the success of Mao Tse-tung, Molotov and Suzlov. It would mean the success of Mao Tse-tung, Molotov and Suzlov. It would mean the success of the "Albanians." This could mean immediate war. This puts the Government of the United States in a very precarious situation. It has no techniques for supporting Khrushchev; at the same time it must recognize the enormous peril in the "Albanians." Mao Tse-tung wants war. From every logical standpoint it is sound for him to have war provided that Russia does the fighting. Red China would come out of such a situation as the principal Communist state unless there were a total defeat. The successor group to Khrushchev would be dependent upon Mao Tse-tung. Mao's greatest risk is the loss of Chinese population, of whom, if he lost 300,000,000, his country would be economically sounder and could be managed more efficiently.

This is a horrible picture that I paint, brutal in every aspect, but I am convinced that it is the picture that we face today and that we may have to meet by war.

Another Mirage

Beginning Of A Dominant Viewpoint In Capital

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

The crucial decision to make a series of American nuclear tests in the atmosphere will be announced as soon as the military-scientific team can complete their preparations for the tests.

The first result, no doubt, will be violent, world-wide commotion. But the most interesting aspect of this long-expected decision is not the loud row it will cause. What is most interesting is the quiet, hardly-noticed governmental process which the decision reveals.

In its first year, the Kennedy administration permitted, and originally even encouraged a bewildering variety of voices and viewpoints in the critical areas of foreign and defense policy.

At first, there was no identifiable consensus. You could not point to any solid core of higher policy-makers with common views about where to go and how to get there. But the beginning of a consensus can now be spotted rather easily, in the background of the difficult decision on atmospheric nuclear testing.

Those who opposed such tests were a section of the leading scientists, who deeply fear acceleration of the arms race; and the Administration's ultra-Union-minded policy-makers headed by Adlai Stevenson, who naturally fear a row in the United Nations General Assembly. These two groups have strong adherents on the White House staff and in the State Department.

Furthermore, they had some good arguments on their side. In one of the rare sub-zero moments of the Kennedy-Khrushchev meeting at Vienna, Nikita S. Khrushchev himself presented the opponents of atmospheric testing with what is certainly the best argument of all.

Khrushchev almost plaintively complained to the President that when the U. S. spent a lot of money on weapons development, the Russian military men and scientists would not let him alone until he had given them funds for the same purpose. If the USSR therefore made progress, Khrushchev continued, the American military men and scientists no doubt rushed to the White House to demand even larger appropriations. And if these were granted, he concluded, the Russian military men and scientists were back in the Kremlin the next morning, again demanding larger outlays and greater efforts.

Khrushchev's complaint impressed President Kennedy, as it had impressed President Eisenhower at Camp David. But the extremely articulate and active men who tried to stop renewed atmospheric testing still got nowhere, despite their White House and State Department vantage points. They ran head-on, in fact, into the new consensus, which was against them.

Much has been made of CIA director John A. McCone's strong views about the need to renew atmospheric testing. But the opinion of the able CIA Director quite certainly counted for less than the advice given the President by the Chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, Dr. Glenn Seaborg. And even Dr. Seaborg's advice probably carried less weight than the firm agreement between Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara and Secretary of State Dean Rusk, that the national security demanded another series of atmospheric nuclear tests.

The Rusk-McNamara alliance, which has also manifested itself on several other occasions, is likely to prove an exceedingly important phenomenon. If the alliance holds, it will surely become the crystallizing point for a dominant, inner group of policy-makers with a common viewpoint—the kind of core-group that played such a vital role in Roosevelt's most critical years, from 1939 to Pearl Harbor, and in the remarkably creative years of the first Truman administration as well.

Viewpoints are more easily defined by events than in words. But the cold-war viewpoint of Rusk and McNamara can be at least crudely defined as hard-boiled but exceedingly pragmatic, with no crusading overtones. It is no accident that this is also the best definition of President Kennedy's viewpoint. The increasing authority and assurance of the Secretary of State must in fact be traced, in large part, to Rusk's gradual discovery that he and the President see most problems in pretty much the same way.

With the President, the Secretary of State, and the Secretary of Defense all on the hard-boiled but pragmatic side, this is plainly the dominant viewpoint in Washington today. But equally plainly, the dialogue within the Administration will continue, between the hard-boiled pragmatists and those who share the Stevensonian, world opinion-minded, Un-mind viewpoint—who do not at all like the label of soft-boiled.

Yet there is all the difference in the world between this kind of dialogue, which can be fruitful, and the Tower of Babel discussion of policy, which marked the early period of the Kennedy administration. A successful administration does not need unanimity; it merely needs the sense of clear direction that can only exist if there is a well-understood dominant viewpoint. That is what is coming into being now.

Recent Events In Moscow Recall Talks With Khrushchev In August

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — When I talked to Premier Khrushchev on the shore of the Black Sea last summer, I asked him when he would invite President Kennedy to Moscow. He replied: "After Berlin is settled. Then he will invite President Kennedy to Moscow and give him the greatest reception in history."

When I reported this, plus my belief that in the person of Nikita Khrushchev the United States had an important potential friend, a storm of abuse was heaped on my head from right-wing quarters. I had also reported that Khrushchev might have more problems with the Red Chinese than with the USA.

About six months have now passed, and recent events in Moscow, Peiping and Washington are worth diagnosing to see just what has been happening along this line.

The walkout of the Red Chinese from the 22nd Communist Party Congress last October is one well-known significant event. Not so well known, but equally significant, has been the withdrawal of Soviet technical advisers from China. This is a mass evacuation of some 3,000 experts who had been training the Chinese to operate factories, science laboratories, and state farms. Along with their exit has been cut off Soviet technical aid hitherto totaling several millions annually.

Also important have been the cartoons and editorials in Peiping newspapers depicting Khrushchev as a buffoon and referring to him in veiled terms as a "revisionist"—the Communist jargon for traitor. He has also been referred to indirectly as "imperialistic and reactionary," the same phrases used against the West.

If Khrushchev Loses

At first Kennedy's conservative advisers inside the State Department were inclined to minimize the Chinese-Russian split. Some even described it as an attempt to fool the West.

As events have progressed, however, even these heads-in-sand ostriches have admitted that vital revolutionary changes are taking place inside the Communist world and that a power struggle is on between Khrushchev which would be disastrous for the United States if Khrushchev lost.

The battle is not unlike that inside the USA which finds the American right wing viciously attacking the liberal-moderate line-up behind the Kennedy Administration. The right wing in the USA believes in preventive war. The right wing in the Communist world believes in the inevitability of war between capitalism and Communism. It violently disagrees with Khrushchev regarding coexistence.

The cleavage inside the Communist world has cut deep. On the side of the Red Chinese in favor of the inevitability of war are the North Koreans, the North Vietnamese, the Indonesian Communists, and, it's reported, some of the East Germans. Inside the Kremlin, Khrushchev is reported having trouble from the diehard Stalinists of which Molotov was the leader; possibly also a segment of the Red Army.

On the more moderate side, the satellite countries, plus the Communist parties in France and Italy, all support Khrushchev.

At one point the controversy was so hot that the American Embassy in Warsaw received a suggestion from Polish leaders that a gesture of Kennedy support for Khrushchev's policy of co-existence would be appreciated. The implication, reading between the lines, was that, without some such gesture, Khrushchev might be in trouble.

Kennedy Reacts

This has partly influenced some of Kennedy's recent moves — namely, the withdrawal of American tanks from the front line in West Berlin; the sending of White House Secretary Salinger to Paris to confer with Soviet Information Chief Kharlamov; the White House luncheon for Alexei Adzhubei, Khrushchev's son-in-law; the plan for a joint telecast to the Soviet and American people by Kennedy and Khrushchev; and the release of Francis Gary Powers, the U-2 pilot.

While it is true that Powers was released in a swap for Soviet spy Col. Rudolf Abel, actually it was a lopsided swap. Not only were two Americans traded for one Russian, but Moscow had expressed no interest in Abel, had made no effort to defend him, and his return home was embarrassing because it amounted to an admission of Soviet spying.

When Moscow announced that Powers was released to better Soviet-American relations, therefore, it was telling the truth. Powers was the greatest espionage catch in Russian history and he would not have been sent home in exchange for a Soviet spy except that other, far more important factors were involved.

Khrushchev is fully aware of the impact on American public opinion by the release of American prisoners. Last summer he told me: "In the first stages of your Presidential election, the American Ambassador asked us to release the American RB-47 fliers."

"But I could see that the effect would be to help Nixon and that he would tell the voters he could best improve Soviet-American relations."

"We did not want to hurt Kennedy, so we said 'no.'"

Shortly after Kennedy took office, Khrushchev did release the RB-47 fliers in an obvious gesture of friendship to the new President. Now it is equally obvious that he wants to start over again with Kennedy to improve relations.

And the big question is: Will Kennedy listen to his old guard advisers in the State Department once again? Exactly one year ago, when the RB-47 fliers were released, Adlai Stevenson, Gov. Averell Harriman, Sen. William Fulbright of Arkansas, and Sen. John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky urged the new President to take advantage of the law by assuming the initiative immediately on Berlin.

Conservative advisers at that time urged the opposite. This time Kennedy is veering away from his conservative advisers.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

The night was cold. The wind ran and stopped and ran through the crooked streets of Greenwich Village. It shook the signs on the front of the One Sheridan Square Theatre. At 8 o'clock, little packages of people stood reading the signs. "Brendan Behan's The Hostage." Some went in. Some went on.

The box office was a small, upright casket. Tickets were $4.50. This was "Off Broadway." It was also off the planet. A stairway led down. A sign warned that there were 17 steps. In the cellar was a stone lobby with a check room, a ladies room, and a Negro ticket taker. The ticket man wore a Van Dyke.

He tore the tickets in half and pointed to a cellar. Two usherettes, one in advanced pregnancy, showed 200 customers to seats. There were eight rows of modern chairs. A small table punctuated every half dozen seats.

Overhead was an Italian restaurant. No sound came through the ceiling. Fixed lights hung to it, aimed at a wooden platform six inches off the floor. This was the stage. On it was a brass bed, two high-backed chairs, a small table with beer bottles, and a red bedspread which had died blushing.

Somewhere, a record was playing Sweet Molly Malone. The customers sat, almost onstage, breathing. Some of the women wore wild fur hats and turtle neck sweaters. Everyone looked expectantly shocked, as though this was going to be a sensational play and the people had come to have their cynical sensibilities scratched with ugly words.

Three fat stone pillars kept the Italian restaurant out of the cellar. The lights dimmed, and died. Some actors came onstage — a man in a cap with a worn scarf around his throat; a woman with the pale skin in a tight green dress; a tall man with limp wrist and mincing steps.

The play was shocking. The audience took the vulgarity to its heart. It roared approval and laughed and slapped its thighs. The story takes place in a Dublin boarding house for prostitutes and other misfits. It concerns an alcoholic group of men and women who, in 1962, are still fighting the Easter Rebellion of 1916.

The British are about to hang an Irishman for killing a policeman. The Dublin group kidnaps a young British soldier in reprisal, and threatens to shoot him. He is The Hostage. The dramatic action is broken by community singing by the actors. One song is Don't Throw Stones at Your Mother. Another is Mr. Khrushchev, Don't Muck Around The Moon.

The plot is both cynical and pointless. The author caricatures the lowest strata of Irish society. He mocks his country, his people and his church. This is the privilege of all authors who, having no story to tell, use blasphemy to keep the audience awake. Irreverence is the signature of the neophyte pen.

Brendan Behan is a stout, hairy Irishman who, being unable to lick his adversaries, has refused to join them. Most critics center their jibes on his drinking, but this points only to his perpetual unhappiness. He does not drink well. He gets sick. Sober, he is subdued and ashamed. He bears the scars of the timid soul who wreaks his aggressions on his typewriter.

It is possible that he is a playwright. If so, I have missed the point, exactly as I have missed the point in all of Tennessee Williams' plays. Sick sex is not worth the price of a ticket.

Still, the tiny cellar theatre was jammed. At intermission time, the people pressed toward the exit to smoke a cigarette and talk learnedly of the "message" they found in the play. They seemed to be agreed that Alan Nunn, who plays the proprietor of the disorderly house, and Geoff Garland, who is the hostage British soldier, are superior actors.

No one seemed to comprehend the part of the American Negro fighter who is billed as Princess Grace. Nor could they understand why he pickets the boarding house with a sign which reads "Keep Ireland Black." If this is humor, it is so far out that the laughter comes late.

Behan managed to get his credo into the program. It says: "I respect kindness to human beings first of all, and kindness to animals. I don't respect the law; I have a total irreverence for anything connected with society except that which makes the roads safer, the beer stronger, and the food cheaper, and the old men and old women warmer in the winter and happier in the summer."

There you have it — the Off-Broadway play. A way, way off. . .

The first earthlings to settle on the moon will have to live in caves, says a noted geologist. Is THAT progress?

Now that gold and diamond deposits have been found in Red Russia's Ural Mountains we wouldn't be a bit surprised if the Kremlin renamed 'em the Capitalist Range.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A wealthy New Yorker, recuperating from a severe nervous ailment, visited a tiny town on the north Jamaican Coast that bears the romantic name of Runaway Bay. Here he took rooms in a lovely old plantation house, presided over by the genteel descendant of the original builder.

On the first night of his visit, the New Yorker was walking down the dark passage to his sleeping quarters when a shadowy form suddenly appeared before him, whispered frantically, "Save me! Save me!" — then promptly disappeared.

The New Yorker fled back to the drawing room and told his hostess what had happened. "This is no place for a man with my nerves," he quavered. "Don't be silly," laughed the hostess. "You've had a rare bit of luck I'd say. You've met my great, great grandmother Clara. She rarely pops up these days. She was murdered in that passageway in 1839."

Jackie Gleason returned from one carefree vacation weighing about 280 pounds. Joey Bishop greeted him with "They tell me you're on the critical list at Slen-derella." Gleason went on a diet immediately and slimmed down to 275.

Ann Landers ...

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The company my husband works for recently sent a letter to each employee and asked that he make a contribution to the political party of his choice.

I told my husband I didn't want him to give anything. A political contribution is the personal business of the individual and no company has the right to put this kind of pressure on employees. My husband feels it is perfectly proper so long as they don't specify WHICH political party should be favored.

I think the company wants to hand over bulk contributions to both parties so they will look good no matter who gets into office. In my opinion, if the company wants to play both ends against the middle the boss should fork over and not pressure the salaried slob. Who is right? — RESENTFUL

DEAR RESENTFUL: I am heartily in favor of grass roots financial support for both political parties. It's much healthier for a democracy when 25,000 people give one dollar than when five corporations give $5,000 each. The contributions, however, should be given independently and not "in bulk" through the company. No employee should be asked to reveal the party to which he belongs, nor the extent to which he supports that party.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband died several years ago. I recently married a widower with grown children.

For my husband's birthday, his daughter gave him a large photograph of himself. She placed the photograph in a double frame. Her mother's picture is on the other side.

I feel like 2c when I walk into her living room and see that pair of pictures on the piano. Wasn't this inconsiderate since her mother has been dead over 10 years and I'm trying so hard to make a new life for my husband?

Shall I give her a photograph of myself (same size as her father's) and hope she will take the hint? Or shall I ask her outright to take her mother's picture out of the frame because I am hurt?

— BELITTLED

DEAR BELITTLED: Do nothing and say nothing. If your step-daughter wanted a picture of you to frame with her father's you would have been asked for one. She would deeply resent a request to remove her mother's picture — and rightfully so.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Thank you for your compassion for girls who become pregnant before marriage. So few people understand what a girl in this predicament goes through. It happened to me and it's a nightmare.

I was 17 and green as grass. Chuck was the only fellow I ever went with. We dated steadily for two years. When a girl goes with one boy exclusively she gets to feeling that she belongs to him and after a while she does.

We were married the first Sunday I was sure. Chuck said he didn't mind about the circumstances, but I'll never get over feeling I pushed him into it. He was only 19 and had to give up plans for college.

You can't imagine what it's like when friends and relatives make innocent remarks about shotgun weddings — not realizing they are stepping on your toes. If people only knew of the agony we go through they'd be careful not to add to it. The worst punishment of all is the kind you get from yourself.

— GUILTY

Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Before You Marry—Is It Love Or Sex?", enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Thirteen Checkpoints For Charm

How can you judge the adequacy of your charm? The answer is simple: Just notice how others respond to you. Do their eyes light up when they greet you? Is there an eagerness in the attention they give to what you say? Do they show a warm interest in what you are doing? Do they consistently court your attention or offer you theirs?

Since women are more clever dissemblers than men, reactions of the latter are a sounder gauge. Even the most tactful of men can't cover their disapproval for long. And it's the little slights to charm which, in the masculine eye, make you either a pleasure to be with—or not.

If you wish to keep your favorite swain solidly sold on your charm, take cognizance of the following misdeeds that can easily count up to a rejection:

1. Making-up in public.
2. Using male pockets as catch-alls for cosmetics.
3. Chipped nail polish.
4. Chewed nails.
5. Too-lacquered

John Gerber of Houston, Tex., is the nonplaying captain of the United States team currently battling for the World's bridge championship in New York. His selection to head our forces is not only popular but well deserved. He has been one of the nation's top players for many years and was a member of the American team that finished second to Italy in last year's International matches.

Gerber helped gain a substantial swing for his team in today's hand taken from a recent national event. Seated East, he elected to pass in second position and listen to a round of bidding. With all his values concentrated in the minor suits, the prospects for outbidding the opponents were not bright, and he decided his best chance was to launch a surprise attack later on.

South opened in the third seat with four hearts and when the bidding reverted to Gerber he chose to call four no trump. Since he had passed originally it was more or less indicated that he was employing the bid in the sense that has come to be known as the "unusual no trump," which requests partner to bid his best minor. West bid five diamonds and North competed to five hearts. West doubled and this became the final contract.

The ace of diamonds was opened and, the Gerber held the remaining honors in the suit, he made no effort to signal a come on but played instead the discouraging five. It was clear to him that unless West held the ace of clubs there was not much hope for the defense, for the spade suit was readily establishable for discards. It was of vital necessity therefore to cash tricks at once before declarer obtained the lead.

West accordingly shifted to the ace of clubs on which Gerber signaled with the ten. Another club was cashed by the defenders for down one.

At the other table, Gerber's teammates reached the same contract of five hearts doubled, with the North-South cards. West led the ace of diamonds, but his partner followed enthusiastically with the king.

West should have ignored the signal and shifted to the ace of clubs inasmuch as his partner had opened the bidding with one diamond and there was a grave risk that South would ruff the second round. However, West was confused by East's violent come on and continued with a second round of diamonds. Declarer ruffed, drew trumps and discarded his clubs on dummy's spades to score an overtrick. The total swing to Gerber's team on the hand was 850 points.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 9 — Burt Lancaster wants to make "The Leopard" not only because of the stirring and exciting drama, but because he is a big fan of Luchino Visconti, who will direct. "I've wanted to work with him for a long time," says Burt, "so when this offer came I grabbed it."

An added inducement is that Horst Buchholz is being sought to play the young Prince Tancredi and Horst is very hot these days with the critics and fans. He happens to be in Hollywood on a flying trip from London because he wanted to be on hand when the work arrived (he beat the bird by a couple of hours). Horst tells me, "If I finish 'Nine Hours From Rama' by May when 'The Leopard' starts in Sicily, I'd love to make it with Burt Lancaster."

The beautiful Italian Claudia Cardinale is the femme lead.

Yvette Mimieux learned the hard way that "The bigger they are the nicer they are" when she arrived very late at the cocktail tea given by French Ambassador Henri Alphonse and his charming wife in Washington, D.C.

What had happened is that Yvette's plane had been delayed out of Chicago because of a snowstorm. She had been due in Washington hours ahead of the party she arrived to attend the party at the embassy and then to appear at the premiere later of "Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse."

Over long-distance Yvette told me, "We were so late to the embassy that everyone else had left. But charming Madame Alphonse insisted on giving us tea and personally escorting us through the embassy."

All Mack Gray did to get himself an acting job was to wear a new sports jacket with a wide plaid slightly resembling a horse blanket. Danny Mann took a look and decided Mack was just the type to play a bookmaker in the Dean Martin-Lana Turner picture, "Who's Got the Action."

Nothing new for Mack to be an actor. He used to play in George Raft's pictures when he was George's shadow. He's been Dean's shadow for 12 years, but this is his first acting job with Dean. Just to see that Mack does it right, producer Jack Rose has brought Charles Turner from the Las Vegas Sands Hotel to act as technical advisor.

It's always nice to have your judgment on a film confirmed by no less a personage than the resident of the United States and also the Vice President. Several weeks ago I wrote in this column of how deeply impressed and stirred I was over "Force in Readiness," the Navy-Marine documentary showing the best reasons in the world why Khrushchev is NOT going to bury us.

Now the commandant of the Marine Corps has forwarded to Jack Warner and Bill Hendricks, of Warner Bros. (Bill compiled the film) a letter from President Kennedy stating, "I saw 'Force in Readiness' at the White House and thought it excellent." And another letter comes from Vice President Lyndon Johnson highly praising this "timely and effective reassurance to the American people."

Elizabeth Seal, who many believe is the most talented import from England since the late Gertrude Lawrence and who won the Tony Award for her charming performance in "Irma La Douce" on Broadway, is in Hollywood with her French actor-husband, Audre Maré.

At the Coconut Grove to hear Lena Horne was Jerry Orbach with Kathy Brown, described as the best of the up-coming prospects among the young actresses, and Richard Gully with beautiful model Charlene Holt.

Dolores Hart will be escorted by John Gabriel to the star a minute ball Sunday night. Marlene Dietrich came to town today to see Jean Louis and have fittings for her clothes for her appearance at the Riviera in Las Vegas Feb. 19.

Tammy Grimes takes off on the road with "The Unsinkable Molly Brown." I saw the play in New York, and we all hope Tammy will make Hollywood. She's taking her four-year-old daughter Amanda with her.

With four unreleased movies to her credit, Connie Ford can afford to do a stage play. She's in the cast of "The Death of Bessie Smith" which opens at the Civic Auditorium March 6.

Insulin is derived from the pancreas glands of sheep, oxen, hogs and calves that are slaughtered.

The Articles of Confederation, though adopted by the Continental Congress in 1778, were not ratified by all the states until March 1, 1781.

Dan's Mountain Rec Area Discussed By Lawmakers

Allegany County's representatives in the General Assembly met Monday night and voted unanimously to propose that the Dan's Mountain Recreation Area near Lonaconing be kept under the State Department of Forests and Parks.

The committee appointed to present a master state park plan to the 1963 legislature in its preliminary report suggested that the Dan's Mountain park be turned over to the local or county interests.

However, the six delegates and senator agreed that it should be retained, improved and properly maintained by the state department.

At the meeting following the night session in both chambers Monday night, the delegates and senator also took up two local matters.

One is being checked by the attorney general's office to see if it would be constitutional to take

County Informed On Park Plan

Del. Fred B. Driscoll (R. Allegany) wrote the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday concerning a recommendation of a legislative committee on the Dan's Mountain Park near Lonaconing.

The legislative group has suggested that the county or the town of Lonaconing take over and maintain the park. The county commissioners were more or less "lukewarm" to any such move on the part of the county.

Officials at VPI said the firm each summer offers an in-service training program, resembling a scholarship program, for selected students from architectural schools throughout the nation.

Six Are Arrested, Equipment Seized

HIALEAH, Fla. (UPI)—Officials said Tuesday they had smashed an illegal horse racing results service that operated from Hialeah race track and served an estimated 1,000 bookmakers. Six men were arrested.

Officers first arrested four men at four separate locations. Two more were arrested later. Authorities also seized a large quantity of equipment, including radios, which they said was used to transmit and receive race results from Hialeah race track.

Sheriff Tom Kelly said it was the largest illegal race wire set up ever broken in Florida. He estimated that it served a bookie operation that has been handling $1 million a week in bets across the country. The sheriff said the bookmakers were paying four of the men $900 a week to run the wire service.

Those arrested were identified as Larry D'Anna, John Powers, Eddie Davidson, Bill Underwood, Ralph Shea and John Quartrone. Officers said Davidson was the office manager of the operation. Investigators said a "bug man" inside the track would transmit in Morse code the Hialeah race results as soon as each race was over, using a miniature transmitter strapped to his body. The messages would be picked up by radio at nearby houses then telephoned to Baltimore from where they would be flashed to about 1,000 bookies across the nation.

Camper Win Would Tie WMI Race

Campaign To End Friday; Piedmont To Visit Keyser

Bruce High School's Bulldogs and Allegany High School's Campers tangle in the "big one" tonight at Campobello.

If Coach Leonard Ritchie's Westernport quint can win this one the Bulldogs will have topped their first W.M.I. League championship in 39 years or since they came into the circuit in 1924. An Allegany victory would enable Coach Chester Payne's Campers to tie Bruce for first place and the championship race would go down to the wire on Friday when Allegany visits Fort Hill and Bruce entertains Valley's Black Knights.

Bruce has won six games and lost two and Allegany, winner of the league crown for the past two years and 24 times champion in the last 41 years, trails by one game with 5-3 record.

Westernport teams have found Allegany courts to be a jinx, the old and the new, and last season was the first time in 32 years that Bruce won here (70-69). The Campers, however, won the "big one" at Westernport by the score of 73-72 and went on to bag the title with an 8-2 record.

This season Bruce, unbeaten in league play at home (4-0) including a 68-55 decision over the Campers on January 16, are 2-2 on the road, having been joined by Fort Hill, 52-51, and Valley 61-47. Allegany is 3-1 at home, the only loss coming at the hands of Fort Hill, 54-47, and has split even in four games on the other courts. Since the loss to Martinsburg, the Paynemen have topped their last three games. The Bulldogs come here with a five-game winning streak. The Campers' overall record to date is 10-7 while Bruce is 14-3.

Bruce, incidentally, won the state Class B title last season, and must beat Valley twice to represent the county this year. Valley won the series opener, 61-47, on January 19.

In other W.M.I. League action tonight, Valley (4-4) meets Beall (2-6) at Frostburg and Mt. Savage (3-5) tests the Sentinels (4-4) at Fort Hill.

Valley has whipped Beall, 67-45, and Fort Hill will be out to avenge a 69-68 defeat at the hands of Mt. Savage.

Piedmont Visits Keyser
The big battle in the Potomac Valley Conference finds unbeaten Keyser High School engaging Piedmont High School at Keyser.

Coach "Eck" Miers Golden Tornado won at Piedmont in a 51-49 thriller and owns a 12-0 record with two games remaining on its conference schedule. Piedmont's record is 9-3. Coach "Huck" Miers of the Lions would like to square accounts with his brother whose Keyser teams have won three of the five games played since the brothers began opposing each other in 1960.

Bayard High invades Preston county to play Aurora High School. Circleville is at Harman and Mel Henry's Hagerstown Hubs tackle the Martinsburg Bulldogs on the latter's court, and Allegany Community College meets the Frostburg State Fraternity quint at Frostburg in other games on the Wednesday night program.

Delaware Quint Plays Potomac State Tonight

Coach Dana "Horse" Lough has company from Delaware tonight.

Visitors from the Peach Blossom or Diamond State are the Wesley Junior College basketball squad from Dover which is slated to do battle with Potomac State College's Catamounts in a Tri-State Junior College Conference game at 8 o'clock in Keyser.

The Wesley-Potomac cage series opened in 1958 at Dover and Potomac has scored three straight wins by scores of 58-53, 84-57 and 58-47 in 1958, 1960 and 1961, respectively.

Potomac will be playing its ninth game in the conference race which is headed by Shenandoah College, (11-1) of Winchester, Va. The Catamounts own a 6-2 record in the 14 school circuit.

The Loughmen conclude their Tri-State schedule Saturday night when they play host to Baltimore Junior College, occupant of second place in the league.

Beatty, 27, was clocked in 3:58.9 last Saturday night in the Los Angeles Times meet.

He will run against a select field of four — John Reilly of Georgetown, Lt. Cary Weisger of the Quantico Marines, Lt. Pete Close of Camp Lejeune and Tom O'Hara of Loyola of Chicago.

28 Orioles Signed

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI)—The Baltimore Orioles brought their number of players under contract to 28 Tuesday with receipt of signed agreements from rookie southpaw pitchers Dave McNally and Harold Knowles.

Earlier Tuesday the Orioles disclosed the signing of two other lefthanded pitchers—Billy Short and Steve Cosgrove. Eleven of the 39 players on the roster still are unsigned.

Bobcats To Visit Nighthawks; Lauder's 269 Leads Scorers

Pirates Sweep Wardensville

Paw Paw Captures 9th PVC Win, 72-66

Paw Paw High's Pirates swept its series with Wardensville High's cagers, winning the Potomac Valley Conference contest last night at Wardensville, 72-66.

The Pirates jumped to a big first-half lead, then hung on to register their ninth PVC win and 13th of the campaign. The loss was the 12th for Wardensville which is 3-8 in the conference.

Trailing 61-45 at the end of the third period, Wardensville rallied to pull within three points at 68-65 with less than two minutes to play, but substitute Clark Hamilton dumped in a field goal and a pair of fouls to ice the verdict for the Pirates.

Roland Hamilton of Paw Paw and Charles Sine of Wardensville shared top scoring honors with 25 points apiece.

Paw Paw, outgassed 31-28, captured the decision by hitting on 16-24 free throws to Wardensville's 4-8. The lineups:

Teachers Assn. Proposes New Salary Scale

Webster Offers Different Plan

A proposed schedule calling for a $4,400 minimum annual salary in the first year and a maximum of $6,500 in the 12th year with a bachelor's degree was submitted to the Allegany County Board of Education yesterday by the County Teachers Association.

John E. Frank, association president, and four members of the association's legislative committee presented the suggested schedule to the school board. Committee members attending included Robert Thomas, teacher at Bruce High School; Dr. W. Ardel Haines, principal of Allegany High School; Miss Dorothy Willison, teacher at Allegany High School, and Thomas M. Wagner, principal of Centre Street Elementary School.

The committee, which stressed that the proposed schedule would raise the salary at most experience levels $300 per year, said that it is patterned after the schedule already approved for Washington County for the 1962-63 school year.

Minimum Now $4,100

Present schedule in Allegany County starts at $4,100 and reaches $6,200 maximum in the 11th year of experience. The Washington County schedule already approved for next year starts at $4,400 and reaches a top of $6,800 in the 17th year of experience.

Mr. Frank and the committee submitted figures which showed that the cost of the increased salaries for next year would be about $190,400. Some $115,500 of that total would go to 385 teachers who will be at the 12th year of experience in 1962-63.

Although he did not dispute the association's proposal, Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster presented to the school board his plan which would go beyond the 1962-63 school year.

Webster's Plan

Mr. Webster's plan, identical to the teachers' proposal except in the 11th year, where he has $6,200 instead of $6,300, would keep the same $4,400 to $6,500 range from the first to 12th years in effect through the 1965-66 school years.

However, he would raise the top level one notch each year. In 1963-64 it would be $6,700 in the 13th year, in 1964-65 it would be $6,900 in the 14th year and in 1965-66 it would be $7,000 in the 15th year.

The teachers' proposal would be identical to the already approved Washington County schedule in the first ($4,400), second ($4,500), seventh ($5,400), eighth ($5,600), ninth ($5,800) and 10th ($6,000).

This county would remain $100 below the Washington County level in the third ($4,600 here), fourth ($4,800 here), fifth ($5,000 here) and sixth ($5,200 here). Finally, in the 11th year ($6,300 here) and 12th year ($6,500 here) this county would be $100 ahead of Washington County.

Washington County Plan

However, Washington County's approved schedule for 1962-63 goes on to $6,600 in the 13th year, $6,700 in the 14th, 15th and 16th year and finally $6,800 in the 17th year. This schedule will remain unchanged in the first 13 years of experience but will go to $6,900 in the 14th, $6,900 in the 15th and $7,000 in the 16th year.

In his presentation, Mr. Frank pointed out that Allegany County is only a few hundred dollars ahead of the lowest county in Maryland. The lowest starting salary is $4,000 in Garrett County and the lowest maximum is $5,900. Montgomery County, the state leader, ranges from $4,300 to $7,900.

Although the board members expressed sympathy with the teachers' salary position, no recommendation was agreed upon by the school board. Several budget meetings are planned by the board in the coming two weeks.

All five members were present. They include J. Goodloe Jackson, president; Mrs. Richard Winer, Mrs. George M. Young, Kenneth R. Malcolm and T. Donald Shires. Robert MacDonald Bruce, attorney to the board, also attended.

Jaycees Back Registration, Voting Campaign In City

"Get Out And Register—Get Out And Vote" is the theme of a program being backed by the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce which is interested in getting local residents to cast ballots in the city elections in June.

ROBERT HUNTER

Hunter Heads Salvation Army Advisory Board

Robert Hunter, 1401 Bedford Street, procurement administrator for Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, is the new chairman of the Salvation Army Advisory Board, according to Captain Fred Overton, commanding officer here.

Mr. Hunter and other officers and new members of the board will be installed at the annual civic meeting of the board at 7 p. m. Monday, February 26, at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Other officers for 1962 are A. Trago Brust, 120 Greene Street, public relations manager of the Lake mill of West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, re-elected vice chairman; Milton Bernstein, 731 Washington Street, president of L. Bernstein Furniture Company, re-elected treasurer, and W. Edgar Landefeld, 709 Bedford Street, retired Celanese mechanical engineer, secretary.

Mr. Landefeld and Dr. William T. Fridinger are the only new members elected for three-year terms on the board. Six others, who were re-elected to new three-year terms include Woodrow W. Gurley, Ernest A. Lindsay, Mr. Bernstein, James S. Getty, retiring chairman, and George R. Hughes Jr.

Major William Goodier, divisional secretary for the Maryland and Northern West Virginia Division of the Salvation Army, will deliver the principal address and install the officers and board members.

Two service clubs will be honored for their special fund-raising efforts at the Christmas cheer program. The Lonaconing Rotary Club will get the area honors and the Cumberland Lions Club will be recognized as the city champion.

The Salvation Army Corps band, under the direction of George Price Jr., deputy bandmaster, will play several selections.

William B. Orndorff and Mr. Lindsay are co-chairmen for the dinner committee.

The program is in conjunction with a campaign to have the council-manager form of government submitted to a referendum by voters of Cumberland when the municipal elections roll around later this year.

John D. May, chairman of the council-manager plan, said last night that Richard D. Dailey will head the "Get Out And Register—Get Out And Vote" program.

Mr. May pointed out that some 9,100 local residents are registered voters and the population of the city is 33,415.

The Jaycees, he said, remind local residents the figures show a lack of interest in local politics, and their aim is to get many more names on the registration books in time for the June elections.

Tonight Mr. May will explain the council-manager system and cite how the plan has advantages over the present commission form of government in Cumberland when he talks at a regular meeting of the Jaycees at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Tuesday a week ago he talked at a meeting of the Trinity Methodist Fellowship which showed enthusiasm for the plan.

The following night he spoke at the Junior Woman's Civic Club, which passed a motion to support the council-manager plan.

Mr. May pointed out last night that literature explaining the plan is available to those who write in care of the Junior Association of Commerce, P.O. Box 1333, Cumberland.

The literature is published by the National Municipal League and the International City Managers' Association.

Organizations interested in hearing more about the plan are asked to contact Mr. May, who will arrange for a speaker to explain the plan.

Local Woman Co-Chairman Of Tawes Ticket

BALTIMORE (AP) — Gov. Tawes named Mrs. Mary L. Wilson Tuesday as state campaign co-chairman for his ticket.

The announcement of Mrs. Wilson's appointment was made by the Tawes campaign headquarters in Baltimore.

Born and educated in Cumberland, Mrs. Wilson is a former chairman of the United Democratic Women's Clubs of Maryland.

In announcing the appointment, Tawes said Mrs. Wilson's "untiring devotion in promoting the recognition of women in both government and politics has not only benefited the Democratic Party but the State of Maryland as well."

Mrs. Wilson is the wife of Ralph D. Wilson and resides at 855 Mt. Royal Avenue, Cumberland.

Riley To Speak

Chad Riley, president of the Algonquin Players and director of the Players' current production, "Bell, Book and Candle," will speak at the Lions Club meeting today at 12:15 in Central YMCA.

Two Men Hurt In Collision West Of City

Two young men were injured early last night in a two-car collision on U.S. Route 40 about a mile and a tenth west of the city limits of Cumberland.

Treated at Sacred Heart Hospital were Richard H. Duckworth, 18, of P.O. Box 144, Midland, and Robert V. Miltenberger, 22, of 20 C Street, LaVale, drivers of the autos.

Maryland State Police said Duckworth, who was traveling east on the highway, apparently fell asleep, hit a sign in the middle of the road and continued about 75 feet before striking the Miltenberger car, which was headed west.

The front of the Duckworth car rammed the front and left side of the other car. The accident, investigated by Tfc. Leonard Glenn, occurred at 6:10 p.m.

Urge Increase In Signatures For Petitions

Measure Backed By Gov. Tawes

By GORDON BEARD

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—A member of the attorney general's office urged Tuesday more stringent signature requirements on statewide referendum petitions.

"Our experience is that too many petitions are being treated too lightly," Deputy Atty. Gen. Joseph S. Kaufman told the Senate Judicial Proceedings Committee.

Kaufman suggested an upward adjustment of the 10,000 signatures now needed to petition statewide acts to the election ballot.

Representatives of the League of Women Voters of Maryland and the Baltimore Association of Commerce also supported an increase, but not as high as the constitutional change proposed in the bill.

The measure, introduced by the Legislative Council with the backing of Gov. Tawes, would require signatures equivalent to 10 per cent of the vote cast in the previous gubernatorial election. Based on 1958 returns, a total of 76,300 signatures would be needed.

Opposes Any Change

The only speaker to oppose any change in the current law was Woodrow F. Strong, president of the Maryland-District of Columbia AFL-CIO.

Strong contended stiffer requirements "would almost outlaw the right of the public to resist actions of the Legislature." He said it was difficult to get 10,000 signatures, but admitted 17,029 names were obtained last year on an act revising unemployment compensation laws.

Mrs. Howard Koss of Silver Spring said the League of Women Voters thought the 10 per cent proposal was unreasonable, but "would support anything between 2 and 5 per cent."

Mrs. Koss, second vice president of the organization, read a prepared statement which expressed fear the 10 per cent provision "would have the most limiting impact on the small counties" which object to statewide laws of interest to limited geographical areas.

Kaufman said when the 10,000 figure was adopted in 1915, the requirement was equal to about 5 per cent of the qualified voters, whereas now "about 1 per cent of the voters can hold up legislation that already has been passed."

Most Require 5 Per Cent

He cited figures showing that most states require signatures equal to 5 per cent of the vote for various elected offices, and said on a percentage basis Maryland probably ranks at the bottom of the list.

Kaufman also suggested stiffer penalties for persons convicted of fraud in connection with referendum petitions.

William S. Wilson Jr., legislative counsel for the Association of Commerce, supported an increase but pleaded with the committee not to "make it too hard to petition."

Sen. Frederick C. Malkus Jr., D-Dorchester, chairman of the committee, said the Legislative Council—on which he served—had adopted the 10 per cent proposal "hurriedly and arbitrarily. I guess, I agree that it is much too high."

The committee gave the bill an unfavorable report last week without offering any compromise figure, but agreed to reconsider the measure at Tuesday's public hearing.

Aging Unit To Meet

Allegany County Commission on the Problems of the Aging will meet tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in the county commissioners' meeting room at the Court House.

IN LOCAL PLAY—Mrs. Bonnie Harrison will portray "Aunt Queenie" in the Algonquin Players production of "Bell, Book and Candle" on February 20 and 21 at the Maryland Theatre. Mrs. Harrison, a local housewife and mother, has had several roles in the various plays produced by the local theatre group.

A native of Oldtown, he has lived in the Frostburg area most of his life and was graduated from Beall High School. He has lived at Shaft the past 15 years.

A salesman and claims manager for Chariton Brothers Transportation Company, Cumberland, he has been employed with that firm for the past 10 years.

He is married and the father of an 11-year-old son.

Chamber Wants Proposed Road To Serve Area

Suggests Use Of Canal Property

The Cumberland Chamber of Commerce is urging that the proposed Allegany Parkway pass through Western Maryland and northern West Virginia, where federal land is available and where the highway would become an instrument for the development of the Appalachian Region.

The request has been sent to the Maryland Department of Economic Development by Francis A. Kenney, chairman of the Chamber's roads committee.

The parkway, as proposed, would be built by the government from Hagerstown southwesterly across West Virginia into Kentucky.

W. Va. Senator Robert C. Byrd has stated the plan might fail because estimated construction costs are excessive, Mr. Kenney said.

He said the parkway could leave Hagerstown by U.S. Route 40 or U.S. Route 11, eliminating the need for building a third road.

Land Available

He suggested that the C & O Canal right of way be used, either from Williamsport or Hancock, and then the road could enter West Virginia near Cumberland to provide a good highway for the development of Northern West Virginia.

Such a route, the Chamber said, would provide access to Allegany Ballistics Laboratory in Mineral County, the largest single industry in the Cumberland labor market.

The Chamber said the water-level route to the Potomac Valley is the most logical from the standpoint of engineering, safety and natural beauty.

It said that after leaving Cumberland, the parkway could be built through the Monongahela National Forest in West Virginia, reducing land costs and providing a facility through the high elevations of the Appalachian Tableland, an area plagued by long-term, hard-core unemployment.

Asks Support

The alternate route, the C of C said, would save millions of dollars by using land already owned by the government, would benefit all the people living in the Appalachian Region of Maryland and West Virginia and would not involve building a third road in the vicinity of Hagerstown, "where no such additional road is presently needed."

The letter requested that the Department of Economic Development and the Maryland State Roads Commission, under the leadership of Governor Tawes, approach federal road officials toward furthering the Chamber's proposal.

Mahoney Backs Master Plan For State Parks

BALTIMORE (AP) — Gubernatorial candidate George P. Mahoney endorsed Tuesday the proposed 10-year master plan for the development and expansion of Maryland's state park system.

In so doing, the Baltimore County contractor aligned himself with his arch rival, Gov. Tawes. It was the governor who appointed the committee, headed by Joseph F. Kaylor, state director of forests and parks. The group recommended the appropriation of $31 million for the projects, to include pollution control, acquisition of more land and streamlining the forest and park administration.

"For a decade or more," Mahoney said in a prepared statement, "the state park system has suffered from neglect and apathy on the part of the political leadership in Annapolis. The hundreds of thousands of Marylanders who make use of the state parks every year know well that existing facilities for swimming, boating, camping and picnicking are so inadequate and underdeveloped as to be incapable of serving present needs, to say nothing of the future."

"In any discussion of the state park system, however," Mahoney continued, "it is necessary to recall that master development plans have been promulgated before, only to be filed away and forgotten. Gov. Tawes himself, now attempting to do the job of a champion of the park system, has done nothing during the three years of his administration to convince Marylanders that his espousal of the master plan is anything but another calculated maneuver by an election year governor."

"... I urge the Legislature to give the most careful consideration to the proposed master plan," Mahoney said.

The $31 million project is expected to be introduced in the General Assembly soon.

False Alarm Checked

The 85-foot-aerial ladder truck and pumper of Central fire station went to North Centre Street near St. Patrick's Church when Box 27 was pulled at 6:42 p.m. Youngsters are believed to have pulled the lever in the false alarm.
